County deals with illegal dumping in Stennis buffer zone

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

DUI death suspect free after trial delay

Zoerner never went back to court after '96 conviction overturned

BY JOHN WATERMAN Staff Writer

A man charged with DUI causing death had his case dismissed by the Hancock County Circuit Court this week.

Zoerner's current attorney, Harry Ward, said he was able to successfully file a motion for dismissal on the grounds that Zoerner was denied his right to a speedy trial.

"My client was very humbled (by the ruling)," Ward said.

Under the "double jeopardy" law, Zoerner will not be able to be tried again, Ward said.

Ronald Zoerner was charged of hitting and killing Maurerite Richardson in 1994 as she was walking along Lakeshore Rd. He was found guilty in 1996, and his attorney at the time, Richard Diamond, appealed the court's

Statutory rape suspect pleads to lesser crime

Jonathan Perry, 20, had been arrested last year on Oct. 7, and charged with three counts of statutory rape. He was held in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $60,000 bond.

The sheriff's office had received a complaint on Sept. 28 from the girl's mother, who lived in Pearlington, report-

Waveland plays ball with Little League

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Board members for Waveland's Little League expressed concerns at a meeting Thursday evening about the future of the League when it begins to share fields at Elwood Bourgeois Park this next season with girls fast-pitch softball. Main concerns were the timing of games with shared fields, who would benefit from concession sales, whether the fields would be dirt or grass, and the new policy on advertising signs that the Little League uses to raise funds.

Mayor Tommy Longo said Friday that parents should not be concerned that Little League will take a back seat to softball.

Longo

"Little League is our first priority," said Longo. "My own son plays in the league. The Waveland charter is the oldest in Mississippi and there is a certain prestige in that ... Little League will always have a home in Waveland."

The Little League will have to share the fields with the softball league and with other recreational activities as programs come in to being, Longo said. Having the girl's softball league at the same location as Little League should be a positive the way Longo sees it. He says that will make it easier on parents who have a boy who wants to play Little League and a girl who wants to play softball.

"These days parents are running everywhere," said Longo. "Now parents can bring their children to one field."

The softball league is just one of the programs the city hopes to bring into the parks, said Longo. While doing research on annexation, consultants found that the city was only meeting the recreational needs of about 15 percent of the population.

A goal now is to expand recreation programs to include everyone from children to seniors. People will have to learn to share the space available, he said.

Concession sales will continue as they always have, said Longo, with the Little League running the sales during Little League games. The city hopes to build an additional concession stand and additional rest room facilities in the near future, he said, and are upgrading the present facilities. Electricity is also being run to power pitching machines at the park. Two fields have been re-done and one more will be re-done after this season ends, he said.

Signs will be allowed under new guidelines, but not on the field and fences. A sign at Lucien Gex Park by the Waveland Library branch is a good example of the way signs may be used, said Longo, with one sign listing all the sponsors.

"We looked at many of the newer facilities and this is the way it is being done," he said. "Signs on the field and fences interfere with playing ability and most sponsors will not mind the change. The cost to the league will actually be less (than making individual signs) and more money can go to the kids."

The two fields that have been re-done are not dirt or grass, said Longo, but a material called crimpstone. It is a very fine material that helps with the drainage of the fields and is the same material used at the Little League field in Williamsburg, Kentucky where the LL World Series is held each year. The new design mimics that field, he said.

Some also expressed a concern that the city's parks and leisure services director Chris Johnson has a personal interest in promoting the softball league's needs over those of the Little League.

"He is a parent and a volunteer and that is all," Longo said of Johnson's involvement with the softball league.

The city has a meeting set up with a Little League regional assistant director this weekend that should put closure to any possible misunderstandings about the city's intentions, said Longo.

Supers eye White Cypress zoning

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Zoning changes in the White Cypress subdivisions should follow already existing neighborhood covenants, said District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman.

"Whatever is in the original covenants should stand," said Pullman. "If people bought property expecting to build in an area with no mobile homes, that should stay; if people bought property with the dream of living there in a mobile home they should still be able to."

If people live in an area where mobile homes have been legally moved in, then they will just have to live with it, Pullman added.

Controversy had been brewing in the area for months when last week the zoning board voted to change zoning in some of the neighborhood to R-1. Residents of Mallard Point had asked that zoning be changed to R-2. Also approved was a change from R-3 to R-2A in Quail Ridge phases 1 and 2.

Commissioners said they would consider zoning changes in other neighborhoods. Some residents were concerned that no mobile homes would be allowed in the area.

In other business:

• Supervisors approved repairs to a section of Whites Rd. in Pearlington. The road will be raised four to six feet between Melody

Lane and MacArthur Lane to alleviate a problem with flooding. Road manager Roger Ladner said that section of the road should be closed to traffic for only a few days. Notices and signs will be posted advising residents before the road is closed.

• The outside horse track at the Hancock County Equine Center and Livestock Arena is open again after renovation to fill in holes in the track surface.

• District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward appointed Louis Hall to replace Dave McDonald on the Port and Harbor Commission.

• An appeal date of March 17 has been set for a decision on Weldon Frommeyer's proposal for a strip club on Hwy. 603.

• Supervisors gave the go ahead for $40,000 in roof repairs to the Tax Assessor's Office, $93,000 in roof repairs at the County Jail, and $38,000 in roof repairs at the Human Services Building and Civic Center. About $335,000 worth of repairs are needed on various county buildings. Funds for the work will be taken out of a recently passed general obligation bond that will be used for repairs on county buildings and county roads. Architect Ed Wilkoff prepared the estimates.

• Three doggie sanitary stations will be installed on the beach to provide plastic bags for dog owners to use for picking up after their dogs.

A Hancock County Middle School student on Friday faces drug charges, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Narcotic's Division director Major Matt Karl said, "A 13-year-old Middle School student was charged Friday with the alleged one count of possession of a controlled substance and one count of possession with intent to deliver of prescription drugs. The student is being held in custody by the Hancock County Youth Court until trial."

The incident began on a school bus followed by the drugs being discarded. An initial investigation was conducted by Lt. Ray Billeaud, School Resources Officer. Agent Chris Russell is handling the investigation for the Narcotics Division," Karl reported.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas

Publisher Emeritus

It is good to be back at my desk once again, following a hospital stay. Last Friday I passed out at all places, Hancock Medical Center. I was out for only a few seconds and was attended to by several doctors and nurses 'post haste.'

For sure, I could not have asked for better care than that given by HMC's staff.

I was moved to the ER and, after numerous tests, to a room. Other tests were performed later at HMC too.

Further testing was done Monday at Gulfport Memorial's 'Cath Lab,' and lucky for me no vessel blockages to my heart were found.

The reason for my passing out - by the way, that was the first time in my life - is still being checked out by further tests.

I do want to thank everyone at Hancock Medical Center for their very professional treatment, as I could not have received better care.

Thanks to so many for their prayers, cards and concerns for my health. I will always remember you.

As I have said many times, Hancock County is a very caring community and the best place in the world to live.

February is closing very fast and in less than two weeks, the Waveland Civic Association will sponsor its annual St. Patrick's Day parade through the streets of Waveland.

Application forms are now available for anyone who would like to participate in the Waveland Civic Association's 41st St. Patrick's Day parade.

There will be trophies awarded for first, second and third places in categories such as, family floats, business/organization floats and marching groups.

The entry fee for family floats is $40 and business/organizations floats $75. For an application, or additional information, contact Jay Fountain at 467-2198.

Entry forms need to be in the hands of the Waveland Civic Association by the March 11 deadline.

Everyone seems to have a great time each year in the Waveland Civic Association's St. Patrick's parade.

It is great news that Rolls-Royce, PLC, has selected the John C. Stennis Space Center to replace its outdoor engine-testing facility in Hucknall, England. Rolls-Royce said it would spend $42 million upgrading its facility at NASA's site right here in Hancock County.

The facility is due to carry out tests on Rolls-Royce engines for two new jets, the Airbus A380 super-jumbo and the Boeing 787 Dreamliner.

The testing for the two engines is set to take place in 2007.

Coming all the way from England to relocate by Rolls-Royce just shows the importance of the John C. Stennis Space Center to Hancock County and immediate area.

Marketing Mississippi better

I've said many times that when the rest of the nation looks at Mississippi, I'd like for them to see a state looking toward the future, a state whose unofficial motto is "open for business."

A place where companies seeking to expand will find local governments and the private sector actively marketing Mississippi and willing to work with them to help bring jobs here.

Well, this is precisely what's happening, and developments of recent weeks show it. Mississippi has proven itself capable of marketing itself and securing and sustaining good-paying, skilled jobs.

Last week I joined Rolls-Royce to announce that this storied British company will relocate its engine testing facility from its native England to Stennis Space Center, Mississippi. This is the first time Rolls-Royce will be doing this sort of work outside the United Kingdom. Rolls-Royce is popularly known for its luxury cars, but aerospace and marine engines are where this nameplate's true commitment and reputation have developed. This is not only a distinguished company, but a committed company - one that is a good corporate citizen of each place it invests. In my hometown of Pascagoula, we've known Rolls for several years because they have a facility there near Ingalls Shipyard where they develop and build ship propellers.

In fact, I was also in Pascagoula this week to officially announce the company will expand its propeller operations in Jackson County. So, here we have an international company making two separate major commitments in our state.

But, that's not all. I also was pleased to join Northrop Grumman and the Jackson County Economic Development Foundation to announce that this top aerospace and shipbuilding company has decided to build the Global Hawk unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) in Mississippi. You've probably heard about Global Hawk

Paying my Taxes - a little lagniappe

Editor,
Waiting until the last day in January to pay property taxes, I drew number fifty-five as I heard twenty-one called. Since I expected a long wait, I noticed that the entire room was packed with people sitting on a few envied chairs and others leaning against the wall. All were waiting with sequential numbers. Finally, when number fifty-five was called, I paid the taxes and rushed across Main Street to my car as it was beginning to rain. My dog's breath was frosting the car windows as he watched for me from inside the car.

Suddenly, I saw the World War II commemorative. The memorial, enclosed in an open portico, has large pages listing the names of Hancock County citizens who participated in the conflict. A vase of white roses dripped heavily with the afternoon mist. I had not anticipated the recollections that were rekindled as my memory began to download childhood data.

With uncontrollable tears streaming down my face, I scanned the large pages listing names of local men and women who served their country during the war years. My eyes darted through the "B" listings until I found my uncle's name, Thomas Harry Brockman. Then I looked through the "H" listings to find my father, Norman B. Hall. By this time, I was sobbing loudly in front of the Hancock County Court House. A concerned gentleman emerging from the tax office stopped to ask: "Lady, are you O.K.?" He probably thought I had been convicted of a crime or that my local taxes were just too high!

"Yes," I replied, "it's that I have several names on the kiosk." He seemed to understand that I was not in mortal danger. I was deeply pleased that he cared to ask.

As I continued to view the pages of brave soldiers who risked their lives in that war, memories flooded my mind; I was a toddler back on family beach property in Waveland. Flashing memories chocked my throat.

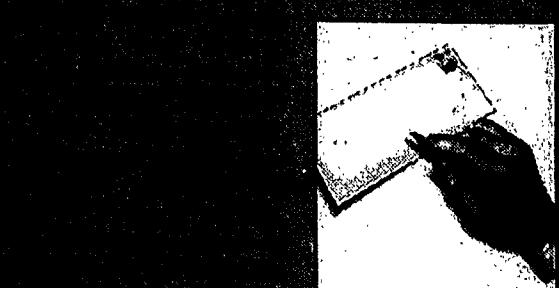

As a young child, my grandmother explained that the young men in our family had joined the Navy and were overseas. With this explanation she would point to the open water in front of our house. Living in a little girl's one-dimensional world, I concluded that "overseas" must be beyond the horizon in front of our house. It was only logical that if I watched the horizon, my uncle "Nanna" and my "Daddy" would miraculously appear and my grandmother would stop praying each night on the front porch. Surely God would bring them home safe if I watched the horizon every day. Selfishly, I wanted to be the first to announce their safe home arrival.

"Nanna" was 18 years old and joined the Navy as a Seabee. My father enlisted when I was several months old. I was too little to understand the implications of war, but I knew that if one prayed hard enough, that ship would one day appear on the horizon and they would sail into the Gulf of Mexico. Sitting on a porch glider for hours on end, I would eagerly await the first glimpse of a ship in the distance, where China was located as far as I was concerned. Binoculars were adjusted for a small face and I could look more intently at the ocean. Since there were only three of us in the house, my mother and grandmother

Bay, Hancock girls play for Jackson; SSC, Bay boys eliminated

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Staff Writer

The host team at each of the Class 4A South State playoff sites fell in the first round. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws fell victim to the McComb Tigers 44-33 while the Wayne County Lady Eagles were upset by South Jones on Thursday, February 24th.

Against McComb, the Rocks jumped out to a 3-0 lead before the Tigers closed the gap by the end of the period claiming a 11-8 lead.

The second period was a slow period for both teams on the offensive end as the two teams combined to score 13 points. SSC scored six points in the period coming off treys by Ramsey Shawa and Michael Cure. SSC went in at halftime down 18-14.

In the third period, SSC took their first lead of the game since the 4:33 mark of the first period when Derrick Willis nailed a jumper to make the score 27-26 with 3:37 left in the period. The Rocks ended the period down 32-31.

Ludovic Dovou pulled the Rocks to within two points 35-33 with 5:11 left in the game but that would be the last bucket scored for SSC. McComb didn't score until there was 2:33 left in the game when Eric Mitchell sank a three-point shot to make the score 38-33.

With the Rocks forced to foul, McComb went 6-for-7 at the charity stripe in the final 1:45 to seal the win. Ludovic Dovou led the Rocks with 14 points and 9 rebounds. Roderick Cotton paced McComb with 11 points and Eric Mitchell had 10 points.

The Bay High Tigers (16-18) jumped out on Jim Hill, the defending 2004 South State champions, 11-0 to start the game; however, Jim Hill remained focused and fought back for the 59-41 win.

The Jim Hill Tigers held a slim 16-15 lead after the opening period and took a 26-23 lead at halftime. The third period saw Bay High have a few breakdowns which allowed Jim Hill to extend their lead to double-digits 41-30.

Braxton Rockwell led Bay High with 14 points followed by Lorenzo Lewis with 10. Flawana Flagg led Jim Hill with 19 points followed by Sollie Norwood had 12 and Tony Hobson added 10 points.

Bay High head coach Alan Lumpkin stated, "Jim Hill put five guards on the floor and were very hard to defend. I thought our guys did a good job, though. We played a good first half and were in good position; however, in the third period we lost some focus which led to some breakdowns for us. Jim Hill is a solid team that never seemed to lose focus.

To beat a good team like that, we have to defend well and control the tempo. I am proud of the way our guys played tonight and all year. This is another step that we have taken with this program. Now, we just need to work on taking the next step."

In the other two games on Thursday night at SSC, Mendenhall defeated George County 61-55 while Stone County upended Northeast Lauderdale 54-46.

On Friday evening, Jim Hill defeated Mendenhall 64-52 to advance to the championship game.

The Hancock Lady Hawks (25-9) took one on the chin in their 57-47 loss to Moss Point (23-6) on Friday night.

Summer Seymour started an energetic first half for the Lady Hawks with a trey to give Hancock a 3-2 lead early. Ashley Boehnel added four points late in the period to help Hancock claim a narrow 13-12 lead over Moss Point.

The Lady Hawks began to roll in the second period as Boehnel scored 11 more including a 7-point spurt to end the half with Hancock leading 31-21.

However, in the third period Hancock came out sluggish in the second half missing shots and allowing Moss Point second chances at the basket.

Hancock head coach Pam Slayton commented, "We will be released in Thursday's edition.

Despite the loss, the Rocks still had a successful season winning the Division 8-4A title with a 14-0 record, including the divifor the Lady Hawks. We just were not able to finish the offensive possession. Against a highly regarded team like McComb, you cannot have breakdowns and we did. I thought we did a good enough job, defensively, to win the game; however, we were not able to get over the hump on the offensive end. We gave a great effort tonight."

on the news, as one of our tools in the War on Terror. This unmanned fixed-wing aircraft can fly long-range missions throughout the globe. It's complemented by a unmanned helicopter called Fire Scout which Northrop Grumman committed to build in Mississippi last year at a facility being constructed in Moss Point. The decision by Northrop Grumman to add the Global Hawk assembly to the mix means about 100 new jobs beyond the 40 initially announced with Fire Scout last year. This project, coupled with Rolls-Royce's commitments, and earlier ones such as Columbus' Eurocopter manned helicopter manufacturing facility announced last year and Lockheed

Martin's facilities in Meridian and in Hancock County, have put Mississippi on the map for aerospace jobs and specifically a leading center for UAV production.

In addition to new commitments from Northrop Grumman and Rolls-Royce, our existing high-tech facilities continue to do well. I also was fortunate to be with workers at Raytheon's Forest, Mississippi, facility last week, celebrating two milestones in their history. For 56 straight months, Raytheon has delivered the EPLRS (Enhanced Position Location and Reporting System) radio to our troops on time and on budget. Twelve thousand of these devices have been made at Forest, and our troops in the field both love and depend on EPLRS.

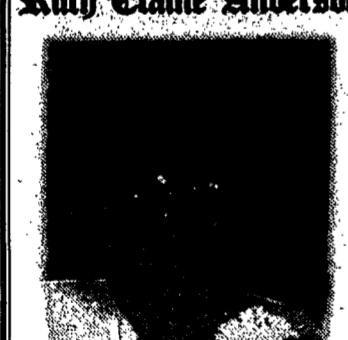

The unit has proven itself in Iraq and in other combat engagements, giving our troops unmatched capabilities in determining enemy positions. It also provides good jobs for Mississippians primarily in Scott and Newton counties. That's why as Senator, I've been very supportive of programs impacting this facility's more than 600 employees, adding about $25 million in federal funding for defense programs which depend on products made at Raytheon, Forest.

Rolls-Royce, Northrop Grumman, Raytheon, Eurocopter, Lockheed-Martin, and Nissan all are world leaders in their field who've recently put world-class jobs right here in Mississippi. None of this happens by accident. These commitments are the direct result of a continued effort by Mississippi's leaders to market Mississippi - to show the world that Mississippi is indeed open for business.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions or comments about this column. Write to: U.S. Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attn: Press Office)

God looked around His garden and found an empty place. He then looked upon the earth and saw your tired face. He put his arms around you and lifted you to rest. God's garden must be beautiful. He always takes the best. He knew you were suffering. He knew you were in pain. He knew you would never get well on earth again. He saw the road was getting rough, and the hills were hard to climb, so He closed your weary eyelids and whispered, "Peace Be Thine." It broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone...

For part of me went with you the day God called you home.

bunctious child for several hours. Each evening they would ask me if I spotted any ships!

I faithfully watched, but that ship never arrived to anchor at our pier. However, "Nanna" did return home from the Pacific theater of war. Fortunately, there was no gold star beside his name on the large page of names near the courthouse steps. My father arrived on a Navy ship in San Francisco. He did not have a gold star either, making me more grateful.

As I look at the horizon today, I'm not as naive as that three year old who sat with fingers crossed and waited for her uncle and father to just come home. We missed them and wanted them safe.

Today I fall on my knees like my grandmother and pray for all those who are engaged in yet another war. I know that a ship won't come to my pier, but it may come to the home port or a plane transporting troops may land at the local airport. Never give up hope. As a three year old, I never did. As a sixty-three year old, I never will.

Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Seal, for the memories. Lynne Hall Burger Diamondhead

Silver Slipper owners plan to buy old President Casino gambling barge

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new owners of the President Casino in Biloxi are selling the gambling barge and will replace it with a larger casino.

The buyers are the developers of the Silver Slipper Gambling Hall and Saloon in Hancock County. Silver Slipper will keep employees on the job in Biloxi until the barge can be moved to Hancock County.

EDSA, an urban planning and landscape architecture firm that did design work on the Atlantis development in the Bahamas and four Disney resorts in Florida, will devise a master plan for the 240-acre President Casino Broadwater Resort property.

The new casino is likely to go on the north end of the Broadwater marina closer to U.S. 90, said Roy Anderson, one of the partners in the new ownership group, Broadwater Development LLP.

Silver Slipper can operate the President Casino at its current location in Biloxi until the end of the year.

Anderson said he and his partners, W.C. "Cotton" Fore and the Dezer Development Group of Miami, plan to complete the purchase of the 240-acre Broadwater property by April 15.

Silver Slipper Casino Venture has filed a notice of its intent to apply for a gambling license to operate the President Casino. The Silver Slipper developers had originally planned to have a riverboat casino instead of a gambling barge in Hancock County.

John Ferrucci, chief operating officer, said the barge will offer more gambling space. The developers now plan to add a four-story, 500-space parking garage to their plans.

"The initial appeal of this transaction is that it's a far superior facility than what we had originally planned," Ferrucci said.

"It takes our gaming space from 24,000 square feet to 38,000 square feet. We anticipate operating 900 slot machines, 30 tables and an expanded poker room of 12 tables," he said.

Ferrucci said he still hopes to open the new casino in Hancock County during Thanksgiving.

Ferrucci said he expects some of the present President Casino employees to follow the barge to Hancock County.

On Wednesday, Dec. 15, 2004, the Red Hats of Diamondhead, along with invited guests from other area chapters, celebrated the holiday season with a buffet and entertainment by the Memory Lane Duet, Diamondhead Cloggers and Line Dancers, Main Street A Cappella Choir and a visit from Santa. The party was sponsored by the Diamondhead Daffy Daffies Chapter.

Acquitted -- not guilty in manslaughter after seeing him allegedly attack his daughter and her boyfriend.

Peterson, an off-duty Hancock County corrections officer, testified that he wanted to calm Keyes down. He said Keyes attempted to punch him, missed, and hit his wife in the face. Peterson returned the punch, and stumbled and fell himself.

After seeing his sister and brother-in-law on the pavement, Corkern testified that he approached Keyes and struck him once. Keyes tell to the pavement, and did not get up.

"I was defending my sister," Corkern testified. "It's the way I was raised. A male shouldn't hit a female under any circumstances."

Corkern said he did not remember if Keyes swung at him first. Many of the witnesses gave different accounts of the incident, but all agreed that Corkern only hit Keyes once.

According to Paul McGarry, a forensic pathologist, Keyes suffered a fatal contrecoup injury to the front of his skull. These injuries occur when one side of the head is struck with such force that the injury is transferred to the other. Keyes died two days later in a Slidell hospital.

Since manslaughter does not involve premeditation, they were obligated by law to acquit him.

Corkern, who had remained composed for all of the trial-including his time on the witness stand-seemed to collapse in his chair with relief when the verdict for acquittal was read.

it does. That's because the roadsides are littered with trash--anything from old tires to mattresses--and we are all paying for the cleanup. County road manager Roger Ladner said that crews spend a month or more about three or four times a year hauling out the trash that people could not be bothered to take to the dump. Crews have already hauled out about ten large trailer loads of trash since the beginning of the week, from the remote area of White Rd. near Pearlington, where the road enters the Stennis Buffer Zone. They will continue down the road and probably finish next week, Ladner said.

The Hancock County Sheriff's department runs

24 hour a day patrols of the Buffer Zone areas, Ladner said, but it is so vast that it is almost impossible to catch litterers red handed. That's why the county is about to try a different approach. The road department will be setting up outdoor remote cameras that will hopefully catch some of the offenders in the act. The cameras will be moved around to various locations at random.

To help with the cleanup, the county uses the services of jail trustees. The trustees' labor could be used more efficiently somewhere else, in Ladner's opinion, he said, and all this littering is costing the taxpayers a bundle of money. Surveillance cameras will be set up over the next couple of weeks.

After the first trial was over, Ward said another witness came forward with an affidavit that claimed a bus from the now-defunct Jubilee struck Richardson.

Ward said the higher courts supported the appeal.

"One of the reasons (Zoerner) appealed it was because the judge did not allow (Diamond) to go into the criminal background of one of the prosecution's witnesses."

ing the incidents, which allegedly took place in the Bay-Waveland area. A warrant was also issued for a second suspect for two counts of statutory rape involving the same girl.

According to documents filed in the circuit court of Hancock County, Perry pled guilty to the lesser charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Perry also pled guilty to one count of grand larceny. He was sentenced to three years probation, a $1,000 fine and a $400 restitution fee.

Oysters, every which way but loose

Views From a Front Porch

by Paul Estranza

www.annabellepublishing.com

When I write this, it's the middle of January and, with the exception of Christmas, there has been no semblance of winter. The weatherman is promising cold weather is coming this weekend, but I'll wait and see.

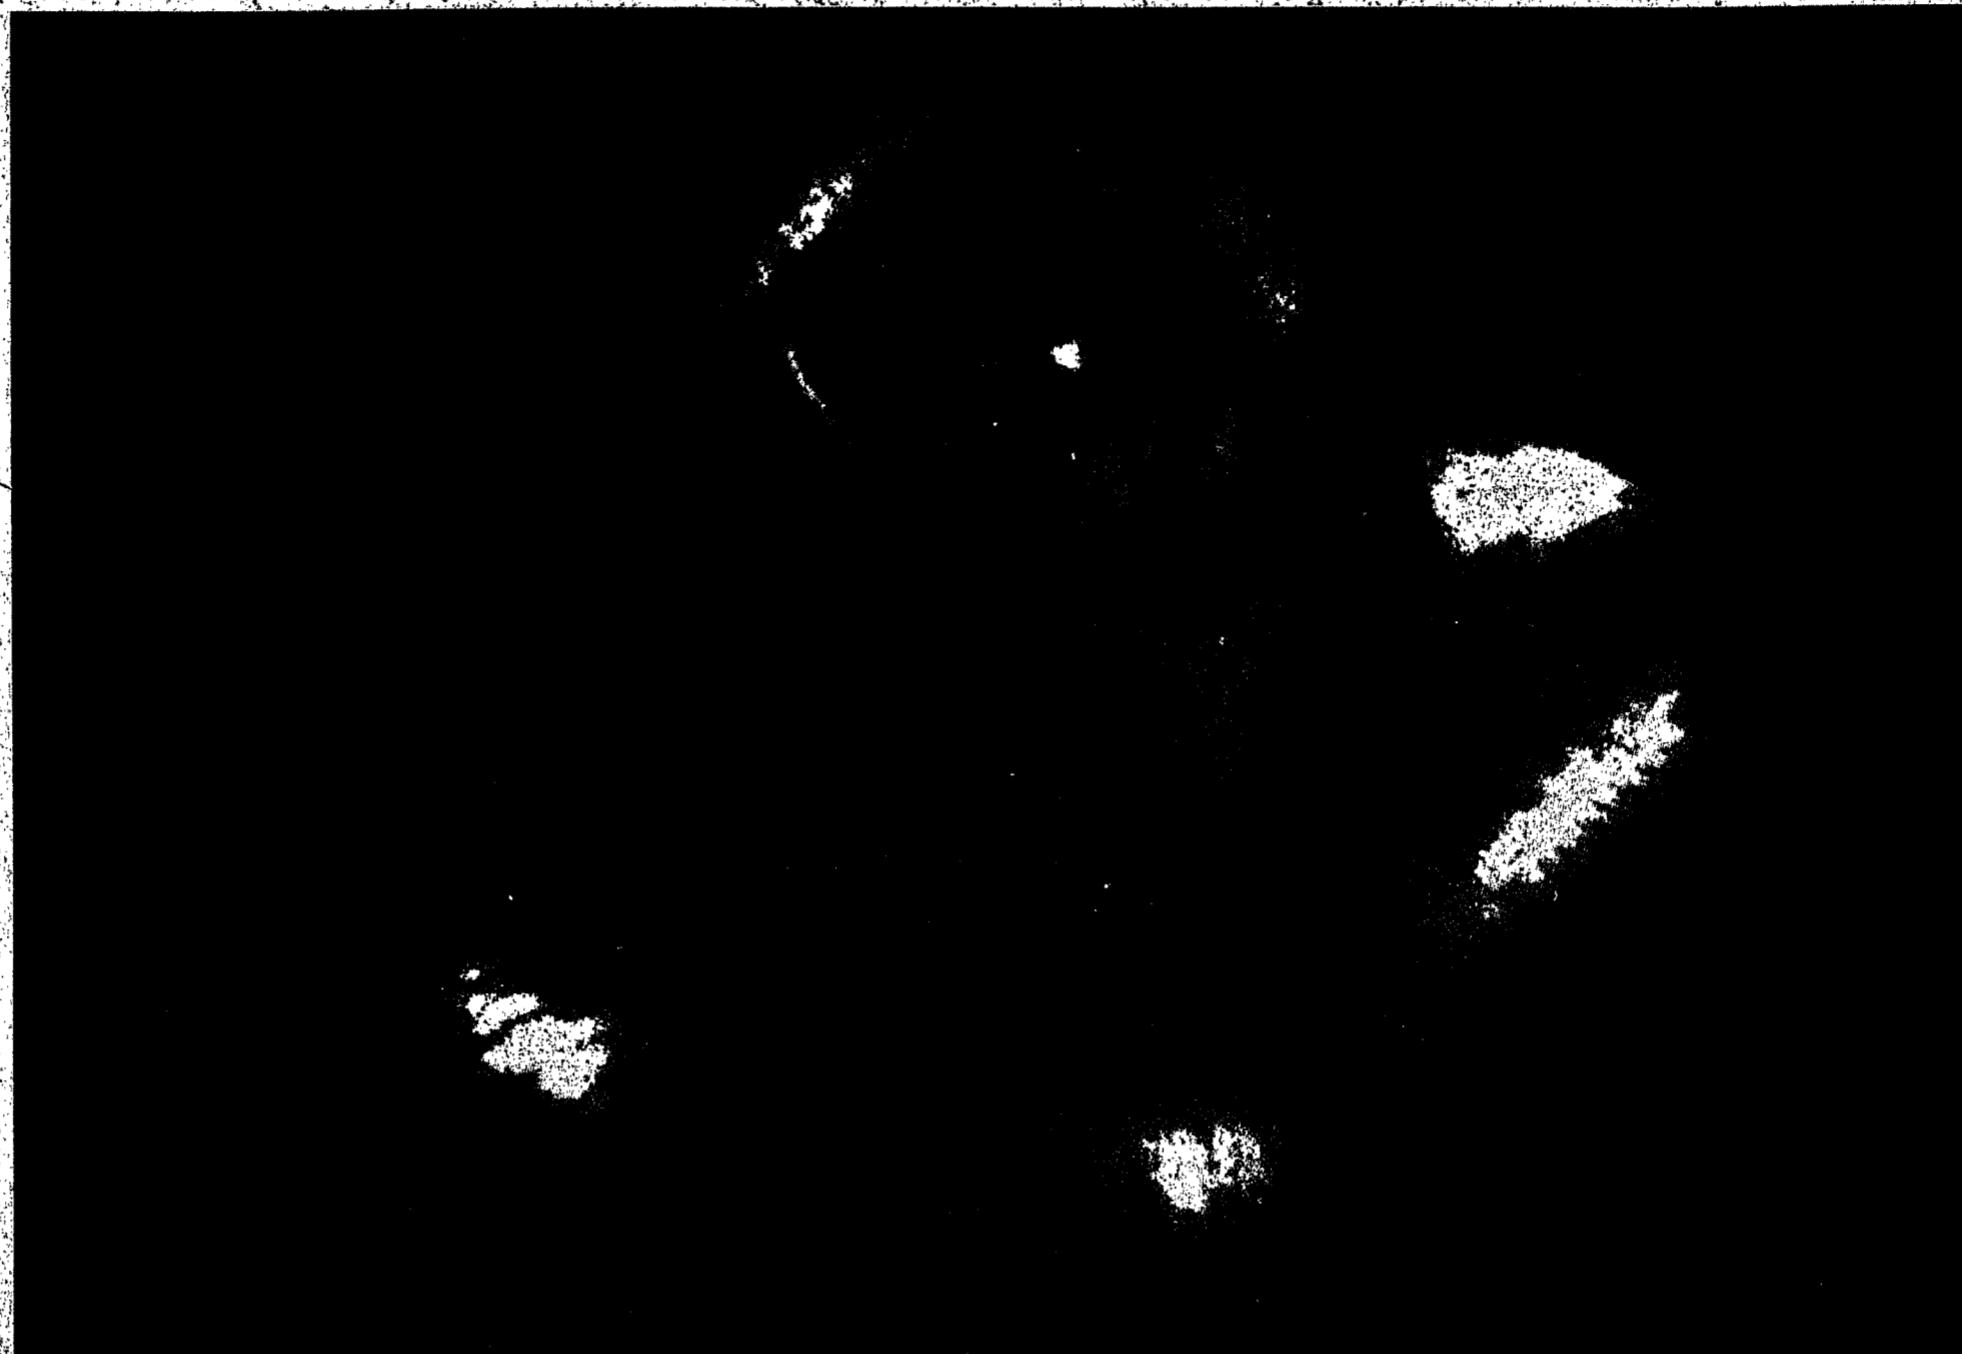

There are other true signs of winter however. As I look out the window at the Sound, the silhouettes of oystermen, both tongers and dredgers, are positioned near the horizon. The weekend is near and they are making working hard to supply the needs for oysters that will come with the weekend. Let me let Stella take a turn in this week's column:

The cold weather Paul talks about calls for good hearty soups and chowders, but heaven knows there are many, many ways to fix oysters and they are all so good. Fresh on the half shell, appetizers such as Rockefeller and Bienville, fried, scalloped, creamed, grilled, au gratin, smoked, in gumbo and in all those lovely soups and chowders are but a few ways to enjoy our local bounty of oysters.

There are many, many great ways to fix the oysters they are harvesting, fresh on the half shell, fried, scalloped, creamed, grilled, au gratin, smoked, as appetizers like Rockefeller, Bienville, in gumbo, the list goes on and these oysters that will be great in all. But when the cold weather comes to me it calls for good hearty soups and chowders.

I'll get back to soups in a moment. Let's talk about oyster per se for just a moment. Of course, fresh oysters are best. If you can, buy oysters by the sack and shuck them yourself. You get good, fresh oysters along with their own juices which is the real plus for doing all that extra work. Commercially processed oysters are washed and they lose a lot of their natural taste. They are then packed in water which also makes them lose some of

A Rosy Outlook

ROSE SELECTIONS - The hybrid tea, like this Love & Peace, is the most popular rose for its form, beauty and cutting ability.

Choose from plentiful, high-quality '05 roses for your garden this year

It's rose-planting time all over the South, and garden centers are loaded with just about every type under the sun - hybrid teas, floribundas, grandifloras, shrub roses, climbers, antiques, English roses and many others.

The hybrid tea is still the most popular for its form, beauty and cutting ability.

If you think we can't grow hybrid teas in Mississippi, you must have never visited the University of Southern Mississippi campus. I also am dazzled each year by the roses at Madison Ridgeland Academy.

Roses are graded with 1 being the best, so look for those that are 1 to 1 1/2 to ensure you'll be happy with your roses.

Set out plants when the soil is not wet. Improve the existing soil by adding large amounts of organic matter like compost or humus. By all means, plant on raised beds for good drainage.

still sell bare-root roses. Before planting bare-root roses, soak the roots overnight. Trim off any broken roots and prune the tips of any branches that may have been damaged.

Roses need five to six hours of direct sun each day. Morning sun is essential, but afternoon shade is tolerated. Good air movement helps the dew and rain dry quickly, which discourages disease.

Avoid planting under eaves or gutters where bushes can be damaged by falling water. Plant your roses where they are easy for you to watch and enjoy. This also will keep you aware of any insect or disease problems.

Dig the planting hole large enough and deep enough to accommodate all of the roots without crowding them. Mound soil in the bottom of the hole to form the shape of a cone.

Carefully spread the roots over the firmed cone of soil. Fill in with a mixture of equal parts organic matter and soil, packing the medium gently but firmly around the roots. Make sure the bud union (where the top of the plant was grafted to the rootstock) is at least 1 inch above the soil level to allow for settling.

Water the plant thoroughly to eliminate any air pockets. Watering with a soaker hose during the growing season will keep foliage dryer and help in disease control.

There are some great new roses available like this year's All-America Rose Selections-winner Elle, a hybrid tea; About Face, a grandiflora; and Groundhog Job Shadow Day 2004 on February 2 was a tremendous success with 88 students from the Hancock County School District in grade 11 and second year vocational students participating in the nation-wide event. Through the program, students spent the day shadowing an employee in a local business to discover how information learned in the classroom directly applies to the workplace.

SSC hosts acclaimed singer-songwriter

Critically acclaimed folk singer-songwriter Pierce Pettis will perform at St. Stanislaus College March 11, following a day of writing-seminars for the school's upper-level English classes.

The concert is open to the public.

Pettis, who Performing Songwriter Magazine called "one of the more vital and critically acclaimed songwriters of recent years," recently released his eighth album Great Big World (Compass Records). He has won numerous awards, including a 1997 Country Music Award for co-writing "You Move Me," recorded by Garth Brooks on his album Seven.

Pettis' primarily acoustic folk music is distinguished by his guitar mastery and insightful, sometimes humorous reflections on relationships, parenthood, faith, grace amid life's struggles, and his southern roots.

He will perform at 7 p.m. in the SSC chapel. Tickets, which may be purchased at SSC's front office between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. (Mon.-Fri.), are $10 in advance, $12 at the door. Fifteen percent of ticket receipts will be donated to a local charity (still to be determined).

Prior to Pettis' evening performance, he will lead a series of writing workshops for St. Stanislaus' junior and senior English classes. In his seminars, he will provide students a glimpse of his song-writing process, help them identify principles that apply to a range of writing endeavors, and evaluate their motives and goals for writing.

Pettis has performed in all 48 continental states as well as in Canada and Europe; appeared nine times on American Public Radio's Mountain Stage, been featured on National Public Radio's E-town, Morning Edition and World Cafe; and appeared on VH-1, CBS News, and the Nashville Network.

In addition to Garth Brooks, such legendary musicians as Art Garfunkel and David Wilcox have recorded Pettis' songs, as have several popular contemporary Christian artists, including Susan Ashton, Geoff Moore, and Sara Groves. During his long career Pettis has been a writer at Muscle Shoals Sound Studios in Alabama, recorded for Fast Folk Musical Magazine in New York, won the prestigious New Folk competition for song writing at the Kerrville Folk Festival in Texas, and served as a staff songwriter at Polygram and Universal Music Publishing in Nashville.

Getting tested can prevent colon cancer

As the nation marks the sixth annual National Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month in March, the American Cancer Society is raising awareness that this third most common cause of cancer and cancer death in both men and women in the United States is largely preventable.

The Society estimates that this year 145,290 Americans will be diagnosed with colorectal cancer (commonly referred to as colon cancer) and 56,290 will die of the disease, a number that could be cut in half if Americans followed American Cancer Society testing recommendations for colon cancer.

Despite overwhelming evidence that testing can save lives, many Americans still are not following recommendations from the American Cancer Society to get tested starting at age 50. Colon cancer is the rare case in which testing can actually prevent the disease.

Suspicious polyps (pre-cancerous changes or growths in the lining of the colon and rectum) are removed before they turn cancerous. Thanks in part to increased testing, colon cancer incidence rates decreased about three percent a year between 1998 and 2001. Increased testing and improvements in survival have also led to a lower death rate, which has decreased an average of 1.8 percent per year over the past 15 years.

When colon cancer is caught early, it has a 90 percent survival rate. Still, fewer than 39 percent of these cancers are discovered at the earliest, most treatable stage.

"It's becoming clear that people 50 and older just do not see themselves as being at risk for colon cancer and needing to be tested," says Dr. Ken Buran, Gastroenterologist at Hinds Internal Medicine.

"If we can increase awareness and compliance to the level we've done with the Pap test and the mammogram, we will have a tremendous opportunity to save thousands of lives through prevention and early detection."

A Colorectal Cancer Awareness campaign has been launched in central Mississippi. Super D Drug Stores, Central Mississippi Medical Center, Hinds Internal Medicine and WLBT-NBC have partnered to give away at least 10,000 test kits. You can pick up your free kit and take the test in the privacy of your home.

For more information about colorectal cancer, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org. The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service.

their flavor. While the merchant takes umbrage at water makes the oysters plump, it also makes them burst during the cooking process.

I realize that we can't all be out there shucking our own oyster because of both time and energy constraints, so we go to the next best thing. Buy your oysters commercially. I like to deal with processing plants or establishments who process their own catch. You then know that you are getting fresh oysters.

When buying oysters, look for creamy, plump oysters whose liquor is clear, not cloudy. They should be free of any sour or unpleasant odor. Don't be afraid to ask to open the container and smell. You might as well save yourself a trip back to the store for an exchange or refund. If the oysters are bad, they should be kept at 39 degrees F and kept dry. Shucked oysters may be stored at the same temperature as long as they are covered by their own liquor in a closed container. Set them in crushed ice to the height of about three quarters of their container and they should keep nicely for about three days. I have also had good luck with freezing oysters.

Freeze them in a plastic container with enough head

For those of us living

ing note is that a goodly amount of these oysters are

Chesapeake Bay has not been as good as it has been in the past and the area supplements its needs with out Mississippi oysters.

Some roses I would recommend for beginners are Sunsprite, a gorgeous yellow floribunda, and a similar one called Sunflare.

The floribunda Simplicity is probably the most widely sold pink rose and is a great choice for not only the beginner but also any lover of flowers.

The shrub rose Carefree Beauty and a new one called Carefree Delight are also on the easy-to-grow list.

Don't forget about Knockout, which has gained worldwide fame for disease resistance and non-stop blooming.

Antique roses, those dating prior to 1867, are widely available. Selections from yesteryear are not necessarily easy to grow, but they certainly offer some excellent choices. These include the scores of David Austin roses, and my experience says there are few, if any, failures in his selections.

Some of my favorites are

Don't Run Down Steps

One day as a young boy, I was on my way to church when, knowing I was already late for the service, I tried to rush. I remember that I was running down some steps in front of my home when I fell and bruised myself in several places. I recall thinking, "Here I am going to church, so why would God let me fall down and hurt myself?" I was blaming God for my clumsiness. And although blaming God when things go wrong may seem absurd, it's not too surprising in a day and age when we may fail to accept responsibility for our own actions, often blaming others for our shortcomings instead. And, when a disastrous situation comes along that can't be blamed on some individual, we can always blame God. However, a more beneficial approach is knowing that God always loves us, and even when things don't go as we believe they should, realizing that perhaps He is trying to teach us a lesson. I only fell down those steps once, and I am now aware that when descending stairs I should go one step at a time and without running. Throughout our lives, we are subject to many learning experiences, and God's gentleness in dealing with us should always be appreciated.

The Lord is good; He protects His people in times of trouble; He takes care of those who turn to Him.

'Diet' is a four-letter word!!!

We had just returned to the church hall after interring the body of the deceased. Most of the people who had celebrated the homegoing in church were back for a funeral repast. With the jarring reality of déjà vu, the food collaborated on by a number of cooks had the incredibly great aroma, the delicious look and wonderful taste of a culinary work of art.

Why jarring reality? Because the deliciously excited feasters were leaving no clue that it was the season of Lent, a time when we traditionally discipline our bodies in various ways, especially by cutting back on some of the sheer delights of foods and drinks.

Au contraire, the hungry crowd was betraying an enthusiasm and gusto considerably out of step with wise selections and portions of foods. Frankly, the choices on the food counter looked like a combination of Cholesterol Alley and Carbohydrate Avenue.

A daunting number of starches teamed up with some fatty meats and butter-spattered vegetables to lay a heavy foundation for the selections of sweets. Of themselves, these foods endanger the human body's delicate chemical balance established by nutrients.

Yet, the big damage is done by the driving appetite and satisfaction of the feasters. They ingest so much food that this mere danger becomes an actual imbalance of the chemicals within us which determine our body's level of sugar, our blood pressure, a man's prostate specific antigen (PSA) count, and the sludge in our circulatory

Reflectionson Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Did she and her fellow feasters leave any doubt that diet is one of the dirtiest of all words? Dirty, and definitely unwelcome. Diet is the wet blanket spoiling any decent funeral repast, any sumptuous banquet, any joy-filled family reunion, any afternoon or evening excursion to a restaurant, or any ordinary enjoyment of one's daily food.

Lent is the greatest watershed of the year in our quest for the best balance in choosing and consuming foods and drinks. Encapsulated in an exalted spirit of religious fervor and spiritual growth, this season urges us to return to sobriety and moderation of every kind.

So, where does that leave us when we read some of the latest surveys on the eating habits and diets of Americans? First of all, our diets and eating habits have been surveyed to death by sundry pollsters, leaving a very bad taste in our mouths about eating.

For instance, the 2004 "What America Eats" survey, Parade's annual inquiry into our eating habits, assures us that last year witnessed us downsizing our portions, reducing our fat and sugar intake, and eating more salads, vegetables and fruits.

Further, the survey points out the good news that Americans have used their heads about the whole question of carbohydrates, wisely making a gradual move from the extreme of carb-crazy to the common sense moderation of carb-conscious.

While we were being steamrolled from all sides by the anti-carbohydrate express, we somehow had the instinctive feeling that we were being urged to throw out the baby with the bath water. Why should we reject out of hand something as balanced as the Mother Nature?

Of course, we know that the problem is not with the potato itself, but with sour cream, butter, bacon bits and all the cholesterol nonsense which we add to the potato. Still, we must admit that one can go overboard in the amount of potatoes eaten.

Rolls and muffins made of white flour are a problem, as is anything else made of white flour. After all, flour, which starts off very brown from grains of wheat, becomes white only when millers pound out all the wheat germ and all the bran. Mixed with water, this white stuff is the glue which we used as children to seal the paper on our kites.

After all this noxious commotion which presents snow-white flour for sale as something light and desirous, millers insult our intelligence by claiming they have enriched the flour by adding inorganic vitamins which our bodies refuse to absorb.

The obvious solution, then, is to avoid bread products made with white flour, not those made with whole wheat flour. Again, even products made with whole wheat flour can be contaminated by adding sugar, butter and various milk products.

Processed is the dreaded word which we must avoid at all costs. As we just reflected, white flour comes about through the process of beating out all the wheat germ and all the bran. In short, no matter what the food, stay away from whatever is processed, which in most cases is also treated with harmful, inorganic chemicals called preservatives.

On the average each year, Americans consume 40 to 50 pounds of preservatives, chemicals which are inorganic and therefore cannot be absorbed by but rather clog the body. Can we say that it is generally very unwise to mess around with Mother Nature?

Similarly, consumed in moderation, corn oil and many other oils are healthy in their unprocessed state. But, hydrogenated or partially hydrogenated through the introduction of hydrogen molecules, the oil becomes an unstable food which heightens cholesterol.

Curiously, health demands that our culinary mission in life must be to avoid the white plagues: white rice, white flour, white salt and fat which, surprisingly, is also white. If we did no more than avoid these, our health would improve manifold within days.

So the surveys go on to tell us that one in five Americans, as opposed to one in three last year, is dieting to lose weight: 39% on the Atkins Diet, 23% on Weight Watchers, 12% on the South Beach Diet. Diet. There goes that undesirable word again.

One of the clearest messages of Lent is that diets usually turn out to be band-aids or just passing fads.

We must come to grips with our inner self, turn away from whatever foods are harmful, and manage good foods as well as we manage the rest of our life.

The Fate of Israel

What will become of the nation of Israel? Shall trouble continue to plague it? Will there ever be peace and safety in this Middle East country?

The land of Israel is hated by many countries. Non-Jews despise the fact that the Jews live there. The Jews believe this is their promised land.

They believe the Almighty gave them this land. If so, will the Almighty protect them from their enemies?

The Bible has much to say about countries that some day will attempt to annihilate the Jews living there.

Ezekiel 38, 39th chapters name the countries that will march on Israel.

Northern Turkey, which in ancient times was called Magog. Southern Russia, the ancient maps show to be Rosh and Tubal. Iran, Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia, the maps of old show to be Persia. Ethiopia, Libya, are so named today. Gomer and Togarmah are armies from the northern parts.

Dear reader, if you would take the time to read those two chapters, they plainly speak of God not only protecting Israel, but destroying those countries' invading armies.

The Bible says fury comes up into His face and sends confusion that every man turns his sword on his brother.

Climatic conditions will be without measure.

It will take seven months to bury the dead.

"And you, Son of Man, prophesy against Gog and say, 'Thus says the Lord God, behold, I am against you, O Gog, the prince of Rosh Meshach, and Tubal'" (Ezekiel 39:1).

The future of Israel is in God's hands and always has been.

Shalom!

Cremation or Burial?

Why do I favor Christian burial? My answer has to do with the importance of the body.

What are human bodies? When people die, do their bodies just become empty containers? Can you therefore treat them as such?

No! Dead human bodies are not like empty beer cans discarded by the road or thrown in the trash. Those who want to put their bodies through the fire often miss this point.

They think the body is of no further use. They reduce it to ashes and scatter it "wherever."

There is another important perspective! It says death does not end it all. Death is simply the separation of body and spirit. This is how the Bible describes it.

TO HEAR MORE ON THE SAME TOPIC, CALL TOLL FREE FOR THE "MINI-MESSAGE OF THE WEEK" 1-800-777-0389 Or visit www.w-e-m.org

"And Jesus, crying out with a loud voice, said, 'Father, into your hands I commit My spirit.' And having said this, He breathed His last" (Luke 23:46).

After death, we bury the body. The symbolism is hope, the hope of the resurrection. The Bible likens burial and resurrection to planting a seed. "So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown a perishable body, it is raised an imperishable body" (1 Corinthians 15:42).

Burial testifies to our faith and hope. The testimony of cremation is just the opposite. It is really for those "having no hope and without God in the world" (Ephesians 2:12).

A message from the publisher

Welcome to Hancock County!

Welcome to Hancock County, Mississippi! We here at The Sea Coast Echo hope this publication will be both informational and entertaining for you, whether you're brand new to the county or a native.

We've worked hard to make it a valuable resource for you to keep and use, offering a concise overview of the county, its towns and cities and the tremendous wealth of opportunities awaiting you here.

As you've probably already discovered, Hancock County is located on the Gulf of Mexico, near New Orleans, and combines state-ly antebellum homes and rich traditions of a proud past with the fast-paced lifestyle of a booming resort area featuring casino gaming.

Situated between New Orleans and Biloxi, Hancock County offers the best of both worlds: Small-town living, with proximity to big-city convenience.

Bay St. Louis is the county seat and celebrated its tricentennial in 1999.

The sister city of Waveland is located just a couple of miles down the beach.

And a little to the north, just off Interstate 10, is the resort community of Diamondhead.

Other communities in the county include Kiln, Pearlington, Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor, Perkinston, White Cypress, Crane Creek and Nease Crossing.

The John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County has thousands of high-tech employees and houses one of the world's most powerful computer systems.

The U.S. Navy fleet is commanded from there. The engines used in every manned space flight were tested at NASA's facility in Hancock County.

The county's industrial park is home to such well-known industries as GE Plastics, Calgon Carbon, Wellman Plastics and Lockheed-Martin.

The Sea Coast Echo was founded in 1892 and is the oldest continually operating business in the county.

The newspaper is published Sunday and Thursday; and on Wednesdays, we publish The Gulf Coast Extra, which spotlights cultural events and entertainment venues from here to Biloxi.

Again, welcome to the Coast and enjoy your stay, be it for a few days or the rest of your life.

Hancock Co. is the place to be!

THE SEA COAST ECHO
As you can imagine, Hancock County is a great place to visit, and we believe it is the place to be, year round. The people of Hancock County invite you to consider our area as a great place to not only play, but also to live and retire.

As a newcomer to Hancock County you will want to take time to explore our seaside communities—Bay St. Louis, Clermont Harbor, Diamondhead, the Kiln, Lakeshore, Pearlington, and Waveland.

There, you will find beautiful beaches and bountiful backwaters, art and antique shopping, boating and fishing, golf and casino gaming excitement. You will also want to take time to explore NASA's visitor attraction Stennisphere at Stennis Space Center.

In 2007, this attraction will be relocated and expanded as a premier visitor and science center attraction to be known as INFINITY at NASA Stennis Space Center.

development enterprise in Bay St. Louis and we are so glad they chose our area for their studios and homes," said Mayor Eddie Favre.

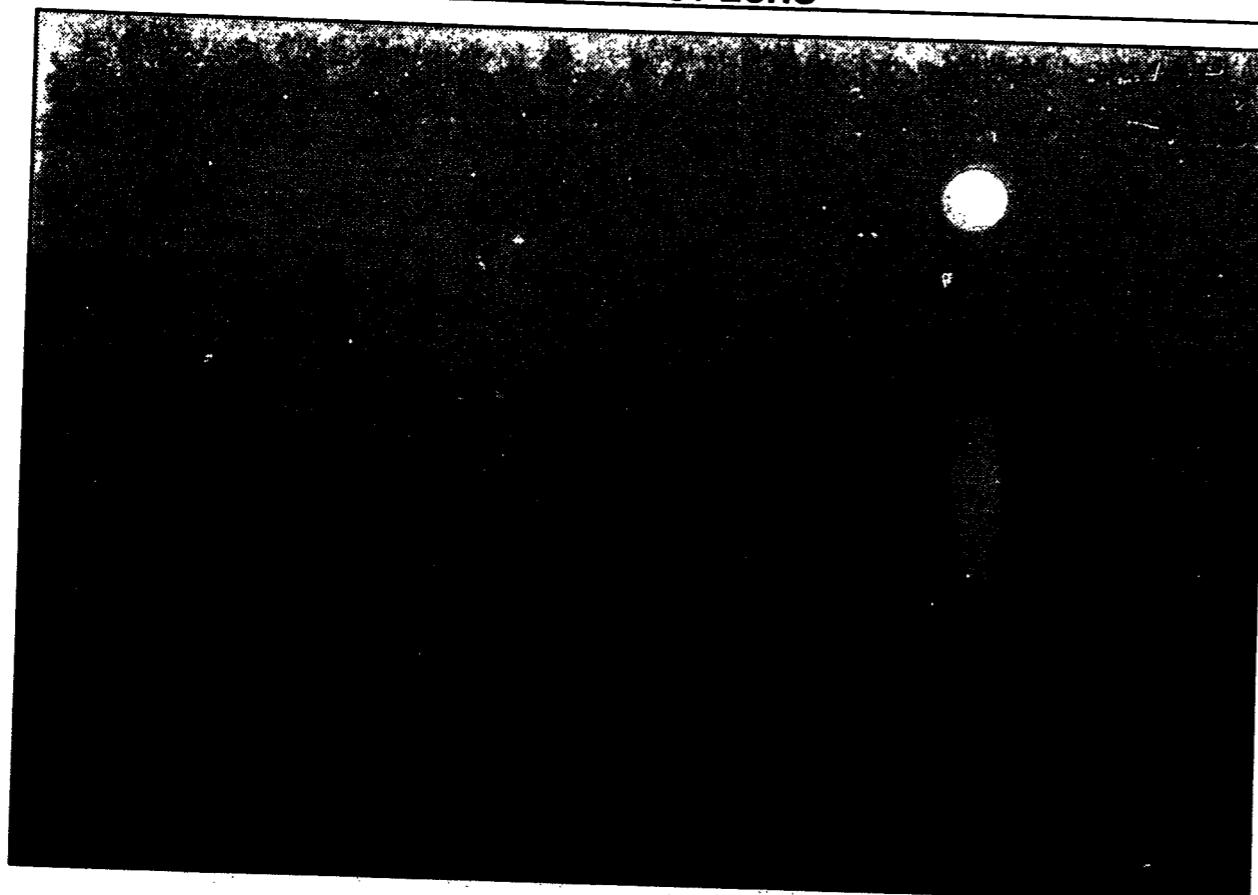

Public art is abundant in Bay St. Louis with the large corporate collection displayed in Hancock Medical Center, outdoor murals, including the community built mosaic murals designed by Elizabeth Veglia and the worldly graphic designs of Kevin Webster.

"Each and every artist contributes to the beauty and diversity of Bay St. Louis, affordable housing. In fact, the county boasts one of the lowest property tax rates on the Mississippi Coast.

No doubt the proximity to the Gulf waters, the beaches, golf courses and natural environment all play a role. A common answer is the laid-back attitudes of the people who live here, and the ever-increasing number of like-minded artists like the late Alice Moseley. Before moving to Bay St. Louis, Miss Moseley, a nationally acclaimed folk artist and story teller, lived in Birmingham, Alabama and Memphis, Tennessee. When she arrived for an art show, she told her son Tim, "This is where I am going to live the rest of my life." And she did. Today, Tim continues to operate her Bay St. Louis studio on Booker Street in the Depot District as the Alice Moseley Folk Art & Antique Museum.

While the largest concentration of art galleries is located in Bay St. Louis, the art community is actually spread throughout the county. The county is rich in artistic diversity. Performing artists, musicians, writers and poets, fiber artists, sculptors and potters, printmakers and papermakers—artisans of every sort make their home here.

There are many arts-related organizations already in place, such as: Bay St. Louis Little Theatre – Hancock County's only community theatre, Diamondhead Performing Arts, St. Rose de Lima Choir, and a variety of dance schools and arts-related programs.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is experiencing a renewal, with a revival of interest and assistance from the community it has served for over 50 years. The original theatre was built on Boardman Avenue in Bay St. Louis in 1948 from two war surplus barracks from the Seabee base in Gulfport. A grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission and assistance from community partners like Casino Magic Bay St. Louis and area artists are helping to restore the existing structure while maintaining its charm.

The program, always run by a dedicated, passionate group of volunteers, fulfills a critical community need to delight the senses, challenge the mind, and uplift the spirit. Each season includes four plays, a Dinner Theatre production, the Children's parades. In the Bay, on the second Saturday of each month, Old Town turns into Hancock County's "giant block party." Stores stay open until eight, live bands stroll the streets and stores offer refreshments to all who visit, says Richie and Barbara Zitzmann, event co-chairs. The new Art Market located at Serenity on Main Street features artists every weekend in Old Town.

Bay Arts, an activity of the city's division of Cultural Affairs, includes major teaching studios for pottery, printmaking and photography. Master craftsmen work with area teachers to enhance their skills using art to teach mathematics, history, chemistry and other disciplines. Recently, area leaders spearheaded an effort to bring all the art forms together under one umbrella organization now known as The Arts, Hancock County.

Everyone, not just visitors, enjoys a festive and eclectic historic beachfront business area, where art galleries, antique shops and jewelry stores co-exist with bed and breakfast homes, coffee shops, waterside dining and entertainment venues.

The Old Town Bay St. Louis Shopping District welcomes residents and visitors year round with events and Went to Waveland to Do Nothing – and Loved It!

BY KATHY PINN

Be careful, the charms of Waveland and its people will capture you and you will find yourself in the midst of people who are always doing something!

When we arrived in this area ten years ago, we bought a house on a neighborhood street in Waveland, and would spend days sitting around with family and guests on the porch or on the beach doing nothing and absolutely loving it.

But beware, this place is thriving with people who are always organizing events that keep you on the go and the only way you can survive it at our age is to retire!

The southern hospitality will charm and lure you. As you visit local establishments such as the flea markets, shops, and restaurants,

Now if you are from another part of the country, this talking will be a little disarming and you will find it difficult at first. But let go and you will find your self entrenched in its vitality.

You'll start wanting more. Pretty soon you'll find your self initiating the talking. Then you'll find yourself actually enjoying the discourse – then craving it. For you see, here in this small gulfside community, time shared with conversation is something that still happens.

But it doesn't stop there, oh, no. Next you'll be invited over for dinner or a game of croquet on the lawn overlooking the beach. There you are, all decked out in white, iced tea in hand, enjoying the summer breeze entrenched once again in meaningless, wonderful, conversation. And "doing nothing" is still within reach because, well, there you are out in the sun practically doing nothing.

As you begin to become more knowledgeable about the local happenings. You'll innocently take in the local custom of parading. Our first local parade was the St. Patrick's Parade that goes down Coleman Avenue in old downtown Waveland. When you have your first cabbage hurled at you, you are hooked.

Then you begin to beg for potatoes, onions, carrots and other trinkets. You hold up your hand and scream just as the others alongside you. Friends and family join in the merriment. Pretty soon people are coming from out of town to visit you just to see a parade.

Parades are a big tradition. They are spawned for just about any reason. In Waveland alone, we have the Festival of Lights Christmas Parade, the Nereids Mardi Gras Parade, followed by the St. Patrick's Day Parade and the "Paws on Parade" pet parade and in the fall, the Cruisin' the Coast parade of antique cars. In between these are the children's parades mimicking the larger parades.

Now after attending a few parades, someone will invite you to join them to be in a parade. Oh, oh, be careful here. This is when you start loving being in the parade and you can't imagine why. You find yourself throwing things out into the crowd. These things all cost money and literally hundreds of beads and things are being thrown. Are we crazy? People from other places ask "why do they do that? Surely, if I go to a parade, I won't get anything. They won't throw something to me."

After a few practices of "Throw me something, mister!" the beads start flying in their direction. Visitors go away from the parade loaded with bags full of beads and can't believe what just happened.

They had a great time and the weirdest part is that the people throwing the beads seem to be having the best time.

Now when there's no parade, you can partake in one of the civic or church festivals that crop up every month. These are family oriented fun-filled activities that usually involve music, good food, fun and a day outside. And, if you are in need of still more entertainment, Casino Magic Bay St. Louis always has nationally known talent and shows for you to enjoy. The Arts, Hancock County and Bay St. Louis Little Theater also provide entertainment and opportunities for partaking in "artful" activities.

Clermont Harbor: Easy Living & an Outdoor Mecca

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Clermont Harbor is an easy living residential community. Hugging the Gulf of Mexico, it is located between Buccaneer State Park and Bayou Caddy in Hancock County.

The community is built around a harbor, barely visible from Beach Boulevard. There is a great local interest in revitalizing the harbor, which once accommodated fishing, crabbing, boating, water skiing, canoeing and sailing activities.

A drive around Clermont Harbor will find old and new residents building, upgrading and improving their property and grounds, and sometimes that of their neighbors. Residents are passionate and protective about their community. Clermont Harbor had a neighborhood watch long before there was such a thing—officially. Many families have been here for generations, so traditions are valued and memories run deep.

Clermont Harbor has the only

Lighthouse in Hancock County in addition to a rabbit hole and alligator hole. A grocery store has been located at the corner of Clermont Boulevard and Railroad Avenue for almost a century.

This unique Gulf Coast Community is home to artists, writers, scientists, builders, judges, teachers, firefighters, clergy, fishermen, seamen, retirees and more. Children of all ages enjoy bike riding, fishing and crabbing from the new pier, swimming, walks in the shallow water, or just sitting on the seawall and gazing across the vastness of the Gulf of Mexico. Floundering has a different meaning here. Clermont Harbor is also home to rabbits, herons, egrets, pelicans, seagulls, eagles and alligators—a mecca for wildlife enthusiasts.

Citizens interested in improving the quality of life in the area are energetically involved in the Clermont Harbor Civic Association in cooperation with the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Lakeshore-Ansley: A place for unhurried living

Near Clermont Harbor is the Lakeshore-Ansley area. The community has grown in the past decade, due to an influx of people mostly from the Louisiana area. This growth has not affected the family oriented atmosphere of friendly people who truly are an example of southern hospitality.

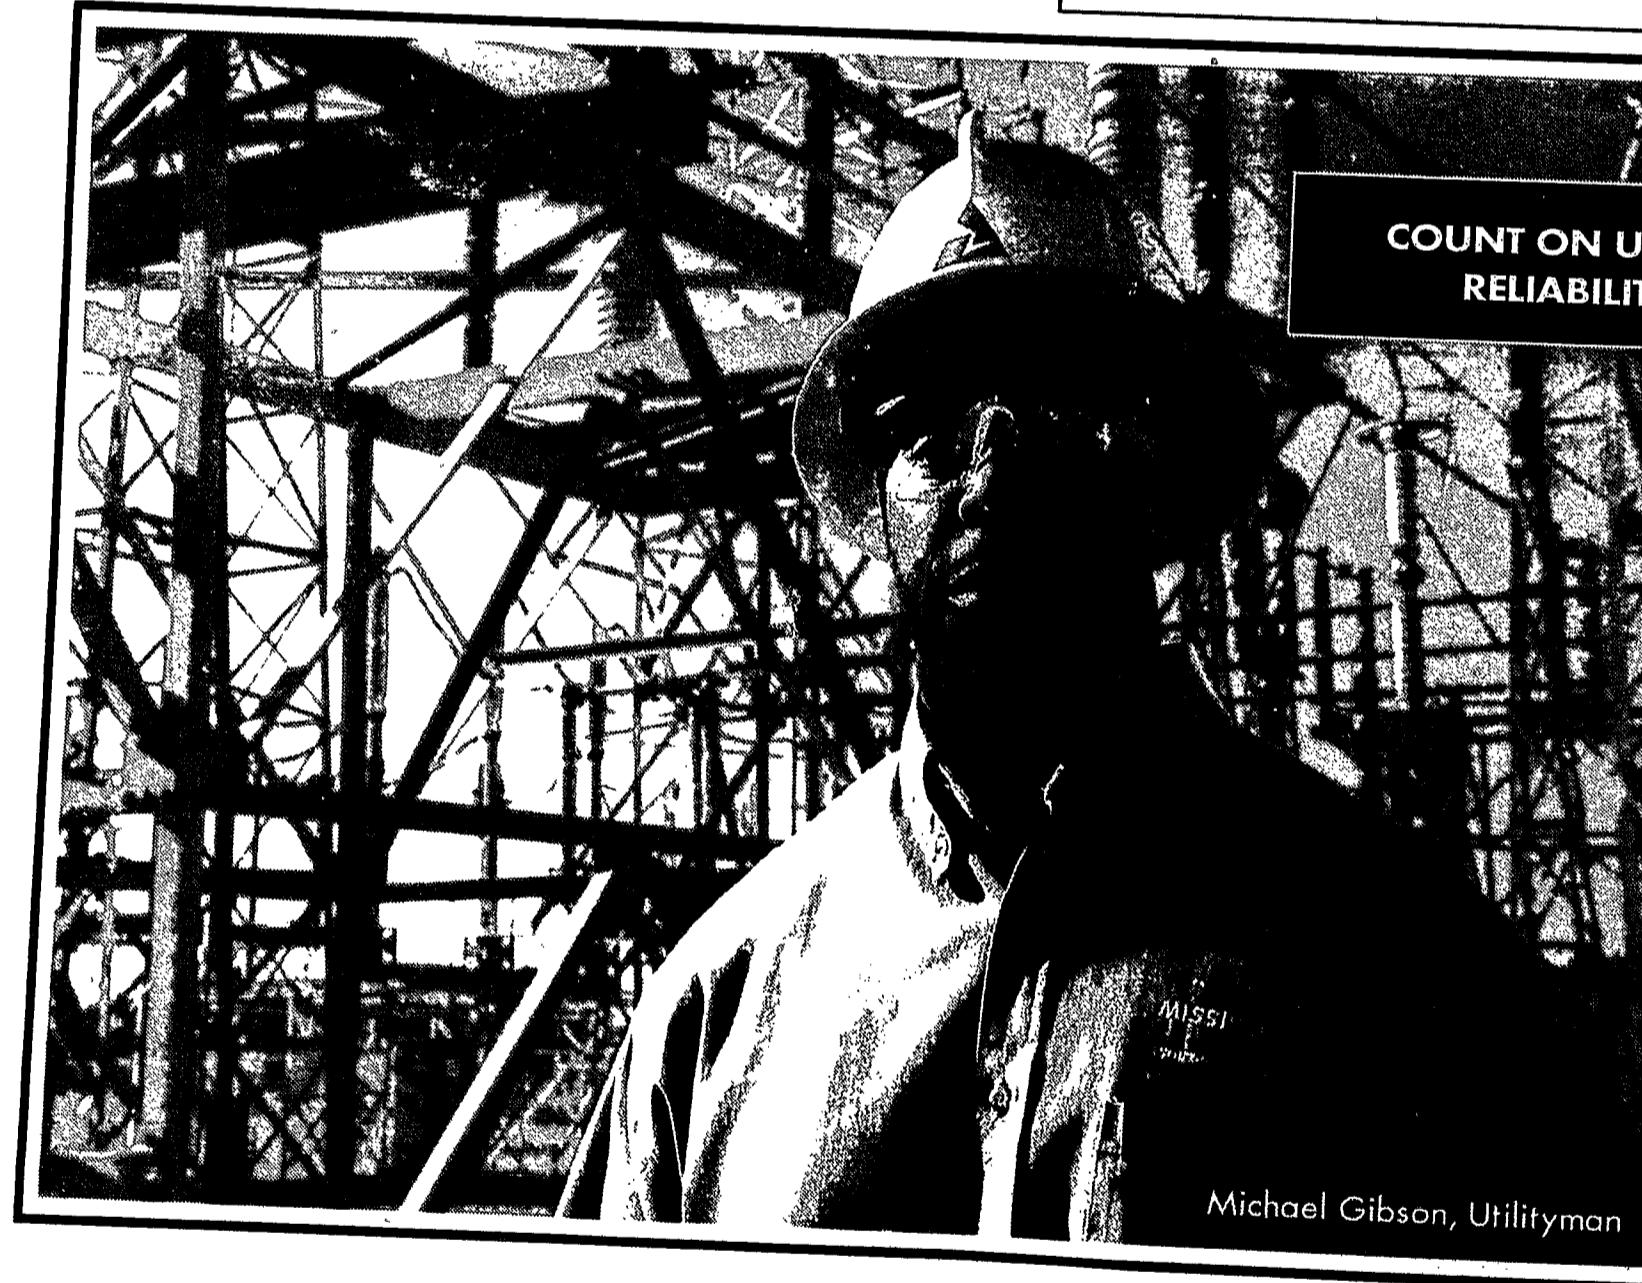

For those who enjoy hunting, the area is surrounded by forested lands and the Stennis Space Center buffer zone, which is home to white-tail deer, turkeys, quail and other game. Fishermen have a choice of fresh or salt water to pursue their pastime. Marinas at Bayou Caddy and local fishing camps are places to launch your boat for fishing or just to cruise.

For the health conscious, there is an excellent walking track just north of Gulfview School, or you may prefer to walk or bicycle along the beachfront. A basketball court is located across the street from the School and is a favorite gathering place for area youth. Between the School and walking track are two athletic fields that are used by football teams in the fall and girl's fast pitch softball in the spring.

Bird watchers have found this area to be particularly attractive to pursue their hobby, since the area is in the midst of one of the great migration flyways. Spring and fall are the most active times, but winter offers an excellent chance to spy the birds that travel here for the season from the northern climates.

If seafood is your desire, you have found "paradise." Fresh seafood is found at Bayou Caddy Marina or the public marina on Pleasure Street almost daily on the many boats that dock there and unload their catch for local restaurants.

Pearlington: The Pearl of Hancock County

Located in the southwest corner of the county, the small town of Pearlington was founded like many other towns in Mississippi, by simple men making their way down the Pearl River and across the Gulf of Mexico, finding a comfortable place to live and make lots of money through free trade.

Known as the "pearl" of Hancock County, Pearlington found its name in the early 1800s due to the fresh water pearls found in the Pearl River. Hidden away amongst the live oak trees and stately pines are its beautiful homes and riverside fishing camps. Pearlington is home to people from all walks of life who enjoy a generally mild climate, outdoor activities and quiet country living.

Pearlington is located in the "buffer zone" of the nearby NASA Stennis Space Center, and offers protection for the town and indigenous wildlife through restricted access areas. Many of the 1,600 residents are employed at the Center.

Many people have said, "If you want to get to space, you have to first go through Pearlington."

Arriving from Michoud, Louisiana, fuel tanks make their way up the Pearl River to the NASA site for testing. They can be seen en route from either of the two public boat launches in Pearlington and the abandoned Logtown area.

Pearlington is home to Hancock County's Mississippi Welcome Center. Located at I-10, it is one of the most heavily trafficked centers in the state, welcoming close to 450,000 annually. Friendly, trained travel counselors are available to provide complimentary refreshments and information including maps, hotel/motel reservations, restaurant guides, weather reports, area events and activities of interest. It is also home to NASA Stennis Space Center's tourism launching area, offering free tours to Stennis Space Center via a bus ride to the 14,000 square foot space StenniSphere museum. The museum accommodates more than 110,000 visitors annually.

South of Pearlington on Moultrie Bayou, once the home of Mississippi's foremost historian J.F.H. Claiborne, is the 3,600-acre waterfront Port Bienville Industrial Park. Managed by the county's economic development agency, the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission, it is the largest developed industrial park in the State. The Commission, established in 1963, also manages the county's airport. More than 1,150 full-time employees work at the industrial site, which includes an industrial shipping port only a few miles from the Intracoastal Waterway and the Gulf of Mexico, a modern medical clinic through Hancock Medical Center known as the Robert Baxter Clinic, and the David N. McDonald Industrial Training Center. Served by its own full service, short line railroad system with connections to nearby CSX mainline, it is now home to close to 30 industrial and business tenants, including the 38th largest shipper of containers in the world—Linea Peninsular. Industrial tenants are complimented by a variety of service providers, such as trucking, packaging, metal fabrications, and shipping services.

Nearby is the Pearlington Branch of the Hancock Library, located at the Charles B. Murphy School. It is the State's only joint use library. All children who attend the school have access to a computer lab and remain on the edge of educational technology. Pearlington has an excellent volunteer fire department, as well as a community center and playgrounds for recreational use.

Local vendors offer residents and visitors more than enough to do in one day. The town is blessed with year-round activities, as well as peace and quiet found only in the woods and along the riverbanks of Pearlington.

Killin' Time is Hard to Do in the Kiln

Just off Interstate 10 at Highway 603 is the community of Kiln, (known as The "Kill"). With a population of more than 2,000, it is one of the fastest growing areas in the region.

"Killin' time is hard to do in the Kiln area these days," say Lauly and Jerry Peterson, local developers and owners of Statewide Insurance. "Things are moving a little too fast for all of us."

In the last few years, growth along the Highway 603 corridor has exploded with new commercial and public developments. A new branch of the Hancock Library opened, offering new educational opportunities for adults and children. The Library showcases community artists and provides residents with a convenient place for meetings and events like the Annual Christmas Tree Lighting.

The Kiln is also home to the Hancock County Equine and Livestock Arena. Located on 80 acres of land, this facility is host to county fairs, dog and horse shows, rodeos, music festivals and more throughout the year.

you will find McLeod Water Park and Campground, on Texas Flat Road. Rich in coastal beauty and recreational opportunities, it is simply a paradise. This is a favorite spot for locals and visitors alike to go skiing, canoeing, fishing, hiking and picnicking along the beautiful waterways. Primitive and developed campsites, pavilions and ballparks are also available. Nearby are private camping facilities.

"Hancock County is a sportsman's paradise," said elected official Steve Seymour. "We have access to saltwater and fresh water fishing, marshes for duck hunting, and uplands for quality hunting." Seymour says the Board of Supervisors has worked with the community to insure public access to these natural areas and to create many different types of parks for organized recreation. "Throughout the county, you will also find community ballparks and even a walking track at Necaise," he said.

North on Highway 603 you will find Stennis International Airport & Airpark, managed by the Hancock County Port &

Harbor Commission. It has the third longest runway in the state - 8,500 feet - with surfaced aprons and taxiways, and over 70,000 square feet of hangar space, individual airplane storage, and acreage for additional development.

A U.S. Customs Port of Entry, it is well equipped to service all types of aircraft. The adjacent 125,000-acre NASA Stennis Space Center acoustic buffer zone precludes encroachment to the airport facility. Local residents enjoy public air shows and the Annual Extreme Weather Fair each April. Recently, an Innovative Technology Center was established at the 100 acre Stennis Airpark. Already, five remote sensing manufacturing tenants have filled the new facility and future expansion is planned.

Nearby on 603 at I-10, a privately funded 1,000-acre high technology business park, Stennis Technology Park has broken ground, catering to advanced-technology companies, providing opportunities for those with ties to SSC. Ready access to three International airports, three ports, and the Stennis Space Center makes it a premier site for new high-tech company locations or expansions.

North on 603 you will find the Southern Promisedland, a 52-acre farm open to the public. Children of all ages experience a rarity for the South each fall during September and October. This working farm challenges visitors to master the 10-acre corn maze. Using a global positioning system, a "nearly three mile long design has been cut through beautiful green corn stalks, offering visitors a truly memorable experience. A 2.5 acre pumpkin patch, hay rides and more will keep the children entertained for hours.

Diamondhead: A Jewel of a Planned Resort Community

Location, elevation and / size make Diamondhead a special place on Mississippi's West Coast. A planned resort community with a population of close to 9,000, it is the fastest growing community in south Mississippi. Conveniently located off Interstate 10 with a full interchange at Mississippi Exit # 16, an estimated 50,000 cars pass through this exchange daily on the main East-West Interstate.

Diamondhead boasts 6,400 acres of heavily wooded, rolling land that rises from sea level at the Bay of St. Louis to over 100 feet above sea level in several locations. It is one of the highest points of land adjacent to salt water from Texas throughout the Gulf Coast and all the way to Florida.

More families with children are making Diamondhead their home, which is changing the demographics and lowering the average age of the residents. Restrictive covenants protect the community's integrity. With Stennis Space Center close by, the backgrounds of its residents are diverse.

Annually, Diamondhead is an attraction for Midwesterners with second homes and thousands of other visitors attracted by the great golf and tennis facilities and laid back lifestyle. The community offers two 18-hole championship golf courses, three pools, resort condos, two hotels and Tennis World's 12 championship clay courts.

The latest community feature is the new stunning $3 million club house, a fabulous addition to the first-class convention and banquet capabilities, all available to the public. Each September on the third weekend, the beautiful grounds of the Country Club are the site for the Annual Arts & Crafts Show, one of the largest in the region.

The Yacht Club & Marina located on the South side of the community is suited to boaters and non-boaters alike. A restaurant and lounge overlooking the Bay of St. Louis provide a spectacular panorama and fine dining, and are open to the public. The Diamondhead Marina has facilities available for mooring boats up to 55 feet in length. The Ship's Store offers full service and fuel dock, and serves as a meeting place for boaters and fishermen.

Diamondhead Tennis World is one of the most active tennis facilities in the area. Ten Rubico lighted courts, team play, a pro shop and lessons make Tennis World a complete tennis complex. It also hosts the Annual Women's 60s, 70s, 80s & 90s National Clay Court

America's Largest Rocket Engine Test Complex Calls Hancock County Home

NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC), located near Bay St. Louis, is America's largest rocket test complex. SSC is a unique federal and commercial city comprised of NASA and more than 30 other resident federal, state, academic and private organizations, and numerous technology-based companies engaged in space, environmental and national defense programs.

The center was established in the early 1960s to test the huge Saturn V engines for the Apollo spacecraft to go to the Moon. Today, all Space Shuttle Main Engines are test fired and proven flight-worthy at SSC. Components of rocket engines for future spacecraft are tested also. The 125,000-acre acoustical buffer zone surrounding the test complex is considered a national asset.

The Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME) reached a significant milestone on Jan. 21, 2004, when the 1 millionth second of SSME testing and flight operations occurred at NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC). SSC is America's largest rocket test complex and has been testing the Shuttle's engines since 1975.

SSC plays a key role in NASA's Earth Science Enterprise, which is dedicated to understanding the total Earth system and the effects of changes on the global environment, particularly in the areas of agricultural efficiency, coastal management, homeland security and disaster management.

SSC's Technology Development and Transfer Office researches and develops new technologies; as well as assessing, certifying and acquiring technologies from the commercial, academic and government sectors.

SSC, under the leadership of Center Director Adm. Thomas Q. Donaldson V, USN (Ret.), currently employs approximately 4,500 employees, with about 22 percent residing in Hancock County.

StenniSphere, the visitor center at SSC, offers free tours of America's largest rocket test complex. Tours to StenniSphere depart from the Launch Pad at the Mississippi Welcome Center on I-10, Exit 2, near Bay St. Louis.

StenniSphere conducts Astro Camp, weeklong day camps for children ages 7-9 and 10-12 each summer, along with Astro Camp Saturday sessions throughout the year.

For more information, call 1-800-237-1821 or visit the SSC Web site at www.ssc.nasa.gov/public/visitors.

HMC is Your Number One Community Health Resource

Emergencies happen — and local residents can take comfort in knowing a fully accredited hospital with qualified physicians is minutes away.

Located on Highway 90 behind the community's public walking track, Hancock Medical Center offers a full range of diagnostic and surgical services.

Last year the growing facility kicked off a multi-million dollar renovation and expansion plan targeting several key areas including emergency, outpatient services and surgery departments. The project will result in more convenient access to outpatient services, according to Administrator Hal W. Leftwich, DBA, FACHE.

One major improvement will divide the outpatient and emergency registration areas, which currently share a lobby. The patient volume has more than doubled since the lobby was expanded nearly ten years ago, said Leftwich, a reflection of the community's growth and confidence in the facility. The outpatient registration will relocate to the Drinkwater Boulevard entrance where the hospital gift shop is currently located.

"Our goal is for an outpatient to register and receive care quickly and easily," said Leftwich, emphasizing the plan focuses on convenient access. Emergency patients will register in a renovated lobby facing Highway 90.

The dining room will expand to accommodate a growing number of patrons, and a new gift shop and chapel are planned for the north Drinkwater entrance.

Recent infrastructure upgrades include improvements to the heating, ventilation and air-conditioning system, to increase energy efficiency and enhance infection control management. New wallcoverings and flooring will brighten the hospital's medical unit and other heavy-

ILY TRAFFICKED AREAS.

Several ancillary offices have been relocated to the third floor of the Rev. Charles R. Johnson pavilion, making way for expansion of outpatient services.

NEW TECHNOLOGY

"We are constantly seeking ways to ensure patient safety," Leftwich noted, adding patient wrist bands and medications will soon be bar-coded as an extra precaution. The measure results from planned upgrades to the hospital information (computer) system.

In addition, physicians will be able to retrieve more information quickly from their offices as a result of the upgrade.

HMC's diagnostic imaging department recently installed a Picture Archival and Communications System (PACS) that provides digital x-ray, ultrasound, CT and MRI images to local physicians, on a CD or over the internet, instead of on film. Whether in the hospital, or at their offices, imaging technology is easily available immediately after a study is complete.

GROWING MEDICAL COMMUNITY

joined the hospital's medical community and another family practice physician will be welcomed late this summer.

The hospital's emergency room is staffed 24 hours by a physician and support staff of certified trauma professionals. A second physician is on duty during peak times in an ambulatory emergency area. Last year, combined visits totaled more than 26,000. The hospital also participates in a coast-wide trauma network.

The 104-bed acute care facility is fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

ACCESSIBLE CARE

The hospital operates three clinics to make medical care available in different parts of the county. The Hancock Family Care Center, in the Kiln community, is staffed by a nurse practitioner and registered nurse. The clinic takes walk-ins and is open Monday through Friday for patients of all ages.

In the westernmost part of Hancock County, Hancock Medical Services is located near the entrance to Port Bienville Industrial Park in Pearlington. Employers on site use the clinic for occupa-

HMC's commitment to health extends beyond the hospital's walls

Hancock Medical Center has taken a lead role in improving the health of community residents. "We want to be your hospital when you're sick," said Administrator Hal W. Leftwich, DBA, "but we are also going to try to keep you healthy." HMC's community health initiative includes:

- School Clinic Program: The hospital operates clinics in 11 public schools and provides nurses, supplies and equipment at all locations in an effort to keep our youth healthy. Last year, these clinics recorded 58,748 visits. A partnership with local school districts, the program has had a remarkable impact on attendance, according to school administrators. The school nurses also participate in a number of programs throughout the year, including the annual Hancock County Sheriff's Camp for youth and Healthy Kids Kamp sponsored by HMC.

- Sports Medicine Program: As a complement to the school clinics, the hospital provides athletic trainers to the public schools, sports programs. In addition, trainers assist at St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy high schools.

- Immunization Program: Uninsured infants through age 19 may receive free immunizations the second Saturday of each month at the hospital. Vaccines include: DTAP, MMR, polio, hepatitis B, Hib, prevnar and chicken pox.

- Mammography Assistance: Through the fund-raising efforts of concerned citizens, the Hancock Medical Center Foundation (a 501c3 organization) provides screening and diagnostic mammography services to women who do not qualify for insurance or government programs. Hundreds of women have benefited from this program since its inception.

- Community Health Fair: Each May, a number of free health screenings are offered at HMC's annual community health fair. Booths are provided by many other organizations in an event fit for the whole family.

- Diabetes Education and Weight Management: One-on-one counseling with a registered nurse and a dietitian is offered by appointment. Follow-up classes cover all aspects of diabetes management.

The LEARN weight management program is an acronym for Lifestyle, Exercise, Attitude, Relationships and Nutrition. Individual goals are set with the focus of changing behavior to sustain weight loss.

- Blood Pressure Checks: Members of the HMC volunteer organization offer free blood pressure checks each Tuesday from 10-11:30 p.m. in the HMC cafeteria.

- Speakers Bureau: Informative tips on health topics are featured each month in a "lunch & learn" format in Bay St. Louis at Casino Magic's Bay Tower Hotel and Diamondhead Country Club. Speakers include physicians and health professionals, who are available to address civic or community organizations by request. Call (228) 467-8727 for information.

Choosing the Right School is Important

BY DR. KIM STASNY
Superintendent of Education

Parents who are changing residences or have a child entering kindergarten face a daunting task as they try to find the right school. And that task is a complex one under the best of circumstances.

School quality is difficult to measure and surpasses the notion of accreditation levels. Besides, what does the rating mean? Levels are determined by how well students perform on the Mississippi Curriculum Tests (grades 2-8) and Subject Area Tests (high school). In Mississippi, there are five levels for public schools: Superior Performing (5), Exemplary (4), Successful (3), Under Performing (2), and Low Performing (1).

School quality, however, depends on many characteristics and goes much deeper than the numbers game. Parents may want to consider the following when choosing a school.

Dr. Kim Stasny

What is the school's discipline policy?
What is the school's safety policy?
What extracurricular activities are offered?
How does the school communicate with parents?

How does the school "feel" when you visit? Is it warm and inviting, bustling with activity? Or is it cold and institutional?

WHY CONSIDER HANCOCK COUNTY

All public schools in Hancock County and the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Districts are rated exemplary or superior by the State Department of Education.

Schools employ counselors and have a partnership with Hancock Medical Center to provide clinics in every school.

Class sizes in lower elementary average 18 students or less. Kindergarten classes have a teacher and an assistant.

High schools offer numerous extracurricular activities not to mention varied competitive sports programs.

Both districts have low administrative expenses meaning more dollars are spent on instruction.

All schools use the Mississippi Curriculum Frameworks in academic areas as well as fine arts and physical education.

Safety for students and staff is regarded as top priority. Discipline policies are firm yet fair and equitable.

Hancock County ranks below the national average for cost of living and its crime rate is much lower than adjoining areas.

Visit the schools - public, private and parochial. Browse around the towns. Explore the county. You'll find it's a great place to work, a great place to learn, and a great place to live!

Hancock -- The Place to Be!

The purpose of this is to motivate students to pursue careers in science, math, technology and engineering – to grow the next generation of explorers.

Known for good food and friendly people, Hancock County is a place you will want to come back to again and again. Throughout the county, you will find some of the best locally owned, locally created cuisine found this side of New Orleans.

There is always something going on in Hancock County, the party literally never stops. During the first part of the year in February and March, there are numerous Mardi Gras parades. Each second Saturday, Old Town Bay St. Louis hosts a giant block party with live music, open houses at all the shops and people visiting from store to store. In May, Buccaneer State Park's Water Park opens where we feature an outstanding wave pool for children of all ages.

In July, the community invites you to join in the activities surrounding the Our Lady of the Gulf Crab Festival.

In September, Diamondhead boasts one of the largest Arts & Crafts Shows found anywhere in this region. In October, we host the Annual Crusin, the Coast Classic Car Festival, welcoming thousands of visitors from throughout the United States to our door for a week of nostalgic activities.

showcase the classic Southern, Greek and Roman revival architecture.

Next door, you will find the Hancock County Historical Society's home, the Kate Lobrano House established in 1896. There you will find able volunteers who can lead you to historical data, photos and collections.

Around the corner and down Second Street, you will visit City Park, next to historic Bay St. Louis City Hall (a Mississippi Landmark building now home to public works and code enforcement offices). You may even want to rent a "Surrey by the Bay" on Main Street to get there. The Park features two live oaks with arms that spread to the ground, giving a beautiful canopy for picnics, weddings and concerts.

Follow the railroad tracks to the Historic L & N Depot District, a quaint area of Old Town that features art and antiques, fine china, local cuisine, a coffee house, yoga, bed and breakfast and the area's historic Train Depot.

Established in 1928, it is a

Mississippi Landmark with a scheduled Amtrak stop.

Near the Depot District is Church. Established in 1926, the church is African American based with an interracial congregation, and is home to one of the best the country. The altar fea-

At Highway 90 on Second

Street, you will see St.

Brothers of the Divine Word from Germany, is the first

The Bay St. Louis Athletic

Complex has seven baseball/ softball fields. The city hosts a variety of competitions at the district, state and World Series levels, in addition to league play. Three other off-site fields support the Complex. Supported by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and Hancock County, Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) fields are located adjacent to the city limits on Longfellow Road.

Nearby, on Saturdays you can enjoy a vast array of produce and unique handmade items from local farmers and craftsmen at the Farmer's Market.

Public walking tracks are available 24/7 to area residents and visitors. One is a beachfront pedestrian and biking path that runs from the Washington Avenue Pier in Bay St. Louis to the Garfield Ladner Municipal Pier in Waveland. A new path and ball field is now featured at a County Park in Necessity out Highway 603.

Waveland -- Do It All

The lure of the water will get to you and you start to yearn for your own boat. After all you do live a block from the Gulf. And when the grandchildren come it would be a terrific way to spend time with them. You sign the kids up for sailing lessons at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club and they love it. And, a whole new way of doing nothing evolves around water activities like walking on the beach, kayaking or just gazing into the sunset.

Just as in larger communities family functions associated with school and sports are a big part of life here on the coast. We have grandchildren so dance, soccer, softball, basketball, football, gymnastics and school plays all add to our free entertainment. Good schools and programs vital to children's growth and development are all a major part of our community.

So "Doing Nothing" is still an option, but the longer you stay here the harder it will be for you to fit it in. It is still possible. The beach still beckons, the back bays and rivers still offer quiet respite from city life and driving along the beach at a snail's pace is still required by law. So the pace is up to you. As president of the Coleman Avenue Coalition, I personally invite you to come to Coleman Avenue and visit our shops, restaurants and service facilities. I think you will love the visit and you will find everyone eager to serve you, and some may even have time for a little southern conversation.

Kathy Pinn and her husband Ron live a life that is far from doing nothing. They are extremely active in community issues and activities. They own That Cute Little Shoppe on Coleman Avenue in Waveland. During 2003, she was named an Outstanding Citizen by the Hancock Chamber. During 2004 and 2005, she is serving as an ex-officio member of the Chamber Board in her role as President of the Coleman Coalition. To learn more, contact her at 228-467-3922 or Waveland City Hall at 228-467-4134.

The Diamondhead Community Center is the hub for community activities. The Garden Club, Square Dance Club, Bridge Club plus other groups and organizations use the center on a weekly basis. The community has four large swimming pools strategically located throughout Diamondhead for the use of the property owners. The East Rec pool area also has soccer and baseball fields and a children's playground. There are churches located across from the Community Center, and a continuing education facility at the former 19th Hole, offering courses ranging from computer training, artwork, and foreign language to yoga and Ti-Chi.

Diamondhead celebrates Mardi Gras each year with parades from the three social Krewes. The Krewe of Diamondhead, the Boaters and the Krewe of Selene. Crowds of several thousand attend each year for the fun and festivity.

The Diamondhead Airport offers a 3,500 foot lighted runway for private planes and a full service fixed base operator for pilot needs. Sightseeing tours are scheduled at the airport that include flights over Diamondhead and the Bay of St. Louis. All of the facilities and amenities within the community are owned by, and are for the use of, the proper-

The property owners elect officers and a board of directors that are non-paid to oversee the operations of the community. A general manager is responsible for the day-to-day operations and reports to the board. Property owners pay a monthly fee to defer the cost of operation of the Diamondhead Country Club and Property Owners Association. The dues entitle the owners to reduced fees at the clubs and recreational facilities. Choosing Quality Public, Private & Parochial Education Opportunities

BY JON & SUSAN RITTEN

We are the products of Catholic education. Jon attended Annunciation Grade School in Minneapolis, MN, then St. Thomas Academy in St. Paul and the University of Notre Dame. Susan attended St. Elizabeth's in Clarksdale, MS, the St. Joseph's Academy (now Our Lady Academy, the all girl Catholic High School for girls grades 7-12) in Bay St. Louis and Barat College in Lake Forest, IL.

All of our siblings followed a similar, if not the same path. As products of Catholic education, we have been imbued with a strong sense of Christian values that has formed the basis of our family, and yet, we also feel that we have greatly benefited from our academic experiences.

While living in Chicago, we had the choice of placing our four children in either excellent public schools or excellent Catholic schools. We chose the latter because we felt it most consistent with the family's core values. The children grew up side by side with both Catholic school and public school children, made friends with, competed with on an equal plane both academically and athletically, and made lifelong friends in the process.

As Realtors, we understand the vital role quality education plays in attracting and retaining business. As parents, when we chose to move to Hancock County, the overriding issue was the education of our last two boys. We considered the options for our own family, and again had the choice of placing our boys in a very fine public school system or St. Stanislaus College (SSC), a residency and day school for boys grades 6-12 in Bay St. Louis. After much debate, we chose St. Stanislaus. SSC has an excellent college prep academic environment consistent with our boys life goals, and it offers a program of strong and fair discipline in a Christian atmosphere.

Our children are grown now, and we are extremely proud parents of three men and one woman who all graduated from Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, two with double majors, all who studied at some point in Europe and all who graduated from college in four years or less. Hopefully we have made the right choices - all were conscientious choices that have had a lasting impact on our close knit family. Unfortunately, there is no perfect formula, so the choice of educating one's children will always be gut wrenching, fraught with ups and downs, and require tremendous sacrifices of time and resources.

It is about choices. And, thankfully in Hancock County you have quality educational choices--private, public or parochial. Your decision will require searching, researching and soul searching. Our family story is not finished. Three of our four children chose to move to Diamondhead after living elsewhere. This new generation of adults are now parents of six children, our grandchildren. As life cycles, they have been faced with the same family decisions we faced a generation ago. Each set of the three parents, after doing due diligence, have chosen independently to enroll their children at Bay Catholic Elementary in Bay St. Louis.

Another elementary choice for Catholic Education is St. Clare's in Waveland. And, for grades 7-12, Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis is the only all girl Catholic High School in Mississippi.

While our family has made the choice for a faith-based education, we unequivocally support all education--public, private or home school; and, we sincerely believe that Hancock County is fortunate to have quality educational choices. We encourage families moving to Hancock County to consider all the options and make the choices you believe are in the best interest of the individual child. Nothing else matters.

Jon and Susan Ritten are both very active in the community in support of education through the Hancock Chamber, St. Stanislaus and other non-profit boards. In 2003, Jon was recognized as an Outstanding Citizen for Hancock County. They are realtors with Coldwell Banker - Coast Delta Realty. tional and medical health needs. Health care is also provided for residents of the surrounding communities of Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore and Ansley.

The Hancock Multispecialty Clinic in the Diamondhead community provides office space for specialists such as internal medicine and ENT, while Hancock Outpatient Rehab Services at Diamondhead offers a full range of physical, occupational and speech therapy. The clinic also features aquatic therapy in an indoor swimming pool conducted by a therapist certified by the Arthritis Foundation.

A healthy workforce is the goal of HMC WellnessWorks, an employee health program focusing on injury prevention and intervention, wellness and health promotions, information/service coordination and provider orientation and training. For additional information, call (228) 467-8079.

NASCAR Racing
A combination of luck and skill is one that all successful stock-car racers seem to possess. You may not need both to win a particular race, but as Jeff Gordon experienced in last year's Auto Club 500, they work beautifully together. Bobby Labonte was closing in on the front-running Gordon and was poised to pass on the last lap until he ran out of fuel. Gordon had just enough fuel to win and today, he hopes Lady Luck is again on his side at California Speedway.

wouldn't last. Twelve seasons later, it can safely be said that they were proven "wrong."

Tonight, the series' long and successful run comes to an end. Before the final episode airs, cast members gather to reminisce in this special episode, "A Final Tribute."

A new crop of contestants is ready to rumble as the hit competition begins a seventh season. Eleven teams, each made up of two people who already have some connection, test their stamina, their patience and their feelings for each other in a variety of challenges during the "round-the-world" race. One pair will look familiar to CBS reality fans: "Survivor All-Stars" winner Amber Br

In Focus

It always comes down to this: two men, one rose. Jen Schefft becomes the latest woman to have to pick between two finalists as the unscripted ABC series "The Bachelor" wraps up its third season Monday, Feb. 28.

She knows what's like from the other side, since she was one of the two people - and the one who ultimately won out - when Andrew Firestone made his decision on "The Bachelor." Undoubtedly, Schefft is hoping hers will endure a whole lot longer than that one did.

For all of the press that its shows "Kevin Hill" and "Veronica Mars" have gotten this season, UPN still has "Tara" to thank for its increased ratings - making it little wonder she's back with a new round of "America's Next Top Model" starting Wednesday, March 2.

Once again, lovely ladies vie for a place in the professional modeling world, with their rivalry pronounced in their shared quarters. In the end, only one will stand on the runway and win entry into a career.
